III. PRO INVESTMENT FRAMEWORK

3.1 Legal framework in investments
Since the end of the nineties, a series of regulations related to tax and customs incentives have been worked, creating an ideal scenario for investors, counting on stability, legal predictability, tax incentives and safe mechanisms for dispute resolution.

3.2 Institutional Framework within Investment Procedures
The Organic Code of Production, Trade and Investment - COPCI, is the regulatory framework that boosts and encourages productive investments, greater added value in production and the generation of quality jobs, through the application of tax incentives.

The Ministry of Foreign Trade and Investment, defines investment policies and the Institute for Export and Investments Promotion PRO ECUADOR, is the executor of promotion and assistance to foreign investors during their investment process.

On the other hand, the Organic Law of Incentives for Public - Private Partnerships (PPP) aims to establish incentives to attract national and foreign investment, for the implementation of priority public projects in which the State delegates to the private initiative the execution of such projects.

Finally, the Law of Productive Promotion, Investment Attraction, Job Creation, and Stability and Fiscal Equilibrium, aims to consider investment attraction as a State policy, in addition to expanding the incentives of the COPCI (Organic Code of Production).

3.3 Special Zones for Economic Development
Special Zones for Economic Development are delimited spaces on the national territory, identified as a customs destination for new investments in transfer and technology disaggregation and innovation, industrial diversification, logistics services, and tourism services, facilitating productive linkages and diversification of the exportable offer.

The Economic and Productive Sector Council is the one that authorizes the establishments of Special Zones for Economic Development.
3.4 Investment on Tourism
